

Nurses Association
OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Q&A- Entry-to-practice Exam

How do exams test nursing graduates correctly when health treatments and care change so rapidly?

Surveys are sent to registered nurses every three years. In New Brunswick, new graduates receive a temporary license to practice for a limited period. These new nursing graduates are included in the survey. Survey results are then used to make any necessary revisions to the plan for the exam and to assign the number of questions in any specific area.